Bright sparks shine in technology contest

A LIGHTBULB moment put Ravensbourne technology students in the spotlight after they won a UK wide design competition.

Two teams of designers took the top prizes at the Intelligent Community Challenge Awards – an urban design competition aimed at architecture, design, engineering and computer science students from UK universities.

They were asked to submit inventions using energy-efficient intelligent LED lighting based on briefs from local authorities around the country including the Royal Borough of Greenwich.

The Ravensbourne teams were among six selected as finalists up for a winner and runner up prize. However, the independent panel of judges from major technology firms, rated both Ravensbourne proposals so highly that they could not decide on a winner and runner up, and awarded both teams a joint top prize.

Students Adrian Jimenez Escarfullery, Dominika Gozdek and Dagna Kolodynska won with their proposal to develop driverless cars in the royal borough.

Fellow students Emma Islam and Leonardo Carmo Silva also won praise for their proposal to reinvigorate the Edgbaston Canal Tunnel in Birmingham.

The Greenwich students win a ten-day global learning tour of facilities at GE Lighting – the multinational company which sponsored the competition.

An additional prize of a week's work experience at Citi Logik –the UK mobile analytics company that helps councils make sense of cities - was offered to Emma and Leonardo.

Leonardo said: "We're still shocked, never did we think we would win, it just goes to show how motivation and work pays off, and how we shouldn't take any opportunities we get for granted."

Fellow winning student Adriane Jimenez said: "It was a really interesting experience. I think we all learned a lot from the competition. We would like to participate more and be part of the future of lighting. Without light there is no vision, without vision there is no future."

Ravensbourne is a central partner in Digital Greenwich – the royal borough's hub of technology businesses and learning on Greenwich Peninsula which has a growing reputation as a centre of design and innovation.

Representatives from the council were at the competition along with ward councillor Denise Scott-McDonald.

Cllr Sizwe James, the borough's cabinet member for business, employment and skills, said: "The royal borough has a growing reputation for pioneering digital technologies and we're incredibly proud that two sets of local students have been recognised by this award which will further reinforce our world wide status as a centre of innovation."

Safe spending for Christmas with the Credit Union

IT'S the busiest time of year for the Greenwich&Bexley Credit Union with residents needing money for their festive shopping. About a fifth of members use the credit union as their 'Christmas Club' and withdrawls and transfers are high at this time of year. Added to that there's also an increase in loan applications in time for Christmas spending. Greenwich and Woolwich MP Matthew Pennycook went to meet, staff, directors and volunteers at the credit union's branch in Thomas Street, Woolwich, last Friday (December 11).

The credit union welcomes applications from people regardless of their credit history or rating, and offers low interest loans as well as encouraging a savings habit. Spokesperson Pete Cubberley said: "With doorstep lenders, payday lenders and loan sharks prevalent across the borough, we are keen to promote the credit union as an alternative to instant loans and we are reminding residents that we can offer access to responsible credit in a time of need, can ensure that families don't fall into inescapable debt."

A red-litter day for Gurkhas

Elderly volunteers clean up common

LITTERPICKERS AT THE READY:senior Gurkahs get to work in Plumstead Common

MEMBERS of Royal Greenwich's Gurkha community helped get Plumstead Common looking spick-and span last month (Nov 28) in a clean-up event that also helped participants meet local people and make new friends. Senior Gurkhas who use the Common for regular recreation were inspired to team up with the local environment group in order to give something back to the local area, clearing up litter and rubbish, and generally helping the area to look its very best.

The clean-up was coordinated by the Greenwich Gurkha and Ex-Servicemen Association, which helped organise the event. Kalpana Lamichhane, a volunteer from the Gurkha Settlement Service who works with the local Gurkha community, also attended the event.

She told GT: "Everyone involved really enjoyed being part of the clean-up on Plumstead Common last month and I know they are keen to do more events like this in the future. It was a good way to integrate with the local community, make friends and practise English. An all-round good experience for all."

Awards for healthy workplaces

LOCAL businesses of all shapes and sizes are creating healthier workplaces for their employees and last month seven were recognised for their achievements when they received the London Healthy Workplace Charter.

The Charter is a simple and effective scheme, backed by the royal borough and London Mayor, that aims to help businesses work towards improved health and wellbeing for employees. To achieve accreditation, organisations adopt strategies to support workers on issues such as mental health, physical activity, and healthy eating.

The benefits to achieving a healthier workplace - for both employees and businesses - can include more productivity, a better company reputation, fewer sickness absences and financial rewards.

Local organisations awarded accreditation at City Hall were: Greenwich Co-operative Development Agency, Greenwich Housing Rights, Bridge Mental Health, Trust Thamesmead, Charlton Triangle Homes, Charlton Athletic Community Trust, Peninsula Construction site and Balfour Beatty's.

Greenwich Housing Rights is a charity that provides legal advice, education and training services on housing issues. It has organised regular events to keep a focus on health and wellbeing in the workplace, provided staff with resources to encourage healthier lifestyles and even set up a staff working group to consider health and wellbeing issues.

The Greenwich Co-operative Development Agency has seen staff more involved and engaged with the key issues, and they now meet regularly to discuss healthy living in the workplace.

Local businesses are encouraged to get involved and register for London Healthy Workplace Charter.

Children's fun run gets council funding

by Dick Townsend-Smith

PLANS for a weekly fun run for children in Eltham Park South have come a stage nearer with the news that the organisers are to get £3,000 to help get it up and running.

The money is coming from a new council fund to help all ward councillors in the borough improve their local communities so that everyone benefits.

The £3,000 is being matched by the Parkrun organisation, which supports park runs throughout the UK. The money will be spent on equipment for the run, including timers, a laptop and software, which will then be used by local volunteers organising the runs. These will take place every Sunday morning, starting in the spring.

The new council fund, called the Ward Budget Scheme, means that councillors are able to spend up to £30,000 in each of the borough's 17 wards over the four-year administration. The Eltham Park South weekly run is the first project in Royal Greenwich to benefit from the scheme.

It was put forward by Eltham North ward councillors Linda Bird, Wynn Davies and Spencer Drury.

Cllr Bird explained: "I was approached by a group of enthusiastic young people who are already participants in the national Park Run initiative. I was delighted to propose their idea to council to bring this weekly running activity to Eltham North, giving our young residents an opportunity to stay fit and healthy whilst enjoying Eltham Park. The success of this application will bring a great deal of happiness to our community. Well done to that group and I look forward to the first run - though I cannot promise to participate!"

Cllr Drury said: "I was really pleased to be able to support the introduction of Junior Parkrun to Eltham Park South. As someone who regularly takes my son to Avery Hill for the adult Parkrun on Saturday mornings, I think this will add some variety to the sporting offer in the area and help make Eltham Park South a more vibrant place for local residents."

Cllr Davies added: "I am really pleased that young people will have the opportunity to take part in a healthy fun activity right in the middle of our ward."

Cllr Denise Hyland, the leader of the council, is responsible for deciding which projects should benefit. She said: "The Ward Budget Scheme is designed to be as flexible as possible, with ward councillors choosing schemes that will help to enhance their community and promote civic pride. It is not designed to benefit an individual or a small group of people, but instead is aimed at the wider community or community organisations."

New jobs as Spanish bakery opens

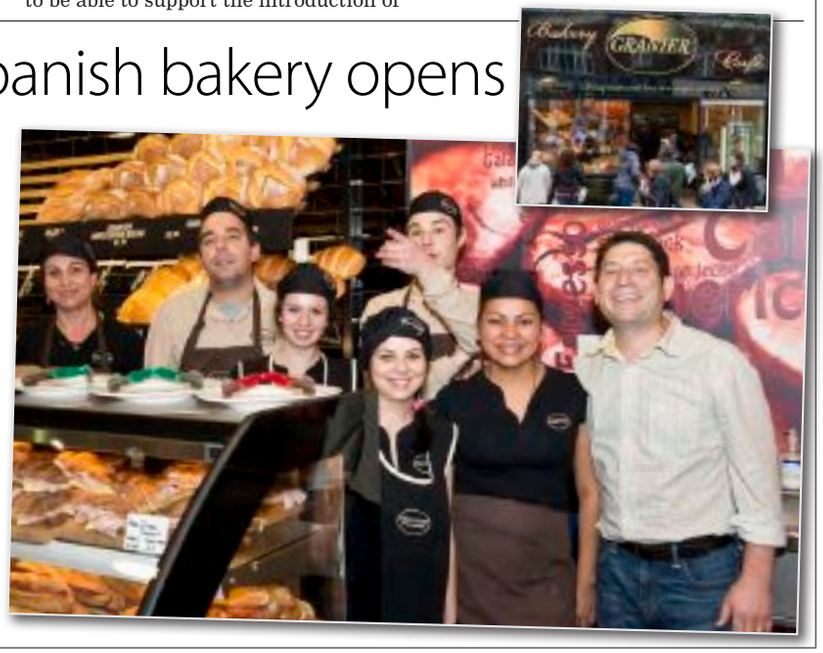

TEN members of staff were recruited for the new Granier bakery and café, which has opened in Powis Street, Woolwich.

The Spanish business has more than 120 branches in Spain, and also has branches in Rome, Budapest and Miami.

After opening in Wood Green, Granier chose Woolwich for its second UK branch because it believes the town is on the way up. David Parera, who heads up the firm's UK operations, said: "We are here to test the market. We were looking for different places, and saw there was an opportunity in Woolwich because there is nothing there like our bakery.

"Our staff have been asking customers what they think of Granier, and the answers people have been giving are very, very good."

The Woolwich bakery and cafe sells artisan breads, cakes, pastries, filled baguettes, soups, teas and coffees. A third branch is due to open in London's Portobello Road in January.

Unique garage puts people back to work

A GARAGE in Woolwich, which is helping local people get into work, is inviting construction and other companies to use its services.

Income from MOTs, servicing and repairing vehicles means SMaRT Garage Services can continue to train people with mental health issues and other disadvantages as well as giving them work experience and access to paid employment.

The garage, on the Kingside Business Park in Ruston Road, is run by First Step Trust (FST), a charity which operates social enterprises to provide work and training for people excluded from work.

The trust has already generated sufficient funds from garage services to create six jobs for unemployed people.

Last week the charity invited Greenwich's cabinet member for business, employment & skills, Cllr Sizwe James, to join the team at the SMaRT (Socially Minded and Responsible Trading) garage.

They have been busy restoring a French 1969 Renault van, known affectionately as Owen, and Cllr James rolled up his sleeves to help with the work.

"I had a great time meeting and working with the team," he said.

"Besides refreshing my mechanic skills, I got the chance to listen and learn first-hand about the personal stories of those who have benefited from the project .

"The common theme is it changes lives for better, building confidence, skills and positive routine, allowing participants to start realising their potential and to go on to fulfilling employment or further training."

Urging businesses to use the garage for their vehicles, trust chief executive Ronnie Wilson said: "By trading with us local people can help us to help people who want to work but are not yet able to cope with the pressures of open employment or government schemes."

- On New Year's Eve, the south entrance at London Blackfriars will close at 7pm, and the north entrance will be exit-only from 11.30pm. Southeastern will not serve this station from 11pm.

Christmas designs chosen

TWO pupils at Charlton Manor Primary School have an extra reason to celebrate Christmas this year when their festive drawings were chosen over hundreds of other entries to feature on a high-profile card. Haadiya Ulhaq, aged 8, won the school's competition to design the Christmas card of Cllr John Fahy, deputy leader of the royal borough. She was joined by runner- up Fausta Kiburyte, aged 10, at Woolwich Town Hall last week (Dec 10) where both pupils were thanked by Cllr Fahy in person for their efforts and hard work.

Haadiya said: "In my head I had an idea about Christmas and I drew it for the competition." Fausta said: "I thought of reindeers and snow and this reminded me of Christmas. I'm amazed and happy that we won."

Pupils at Cherry Orchard Primary School in Charlton also ran a Christmas card competition, with four-year-old Emilia Nikolajenko designing the winning design, a Christmas fairy – picked ahead of 80 other designs. The picture became the official Charlton Triangle Homes card ahead of 80 other entries.

Making memories for Christmas

AS the nation settles down for The Queen's Speech, nurses will be providing round-the-clock care to seriously ill children at Demelza Hospice for Children. Staff at the hospice in Wensley Close, Eltham, is free to families, and is available 365 days a year. Children's palliative care nurse Sandy Cole, is among staff working a 12-hour shift on December 25. The 57-year-old grandmother from Shooters Hill, said: "Sadly, for some of the families we support, it could be their last Christmas with their child so it's important that we help to create precious moments and memories."

Council and emergency services join forces to offer safety advice

by Laraine Clay

LICENSEES have been reminded of their legal duties to ensure their customers do not cause a nuisance and to help them get home safely.

The police and council have written to landlords highlighting their responsibilities over the Christmas period which include preventing disturbances inside or outside pubs, ensuring that CCTV is working and providing information on local transport for customers.

Borough commander Helen Millichap said: "We want licensees to work closely with us and ensure that, together, we can give everyone a safe Christmas across the borough."

Cllr Denise Hyland, Leader of the royal borough, said: "We want to remind licensees during this busy festive period that they have a duty to prevent noise or disturbances in and around their premises.

"We also want them to help their customers return home safely and that residents living nearby are not affected by any disturbances so we can all enjoy a safe and happy christmas."

New fire safety rules for landlords

THE royal borough is reminding private landlords about new fire safety rules which require them to install smoke and carbon monoxide alarms in all rented properties - or face a penalty of up to £5000.

The new rules were introduced on October 1 to improve safety, particularly as there has been a sharp increase in people renting through the private sector.

The new rules require landlords to:

- Install a smoke alarm on every level of each rented property and a carbon monoxide alarm inside each room with a solid fuel burning appliance
- Make sure the alarms are working and tenants understand how and when to check the alarms are working.

Cllr Jackie Smith the council's cabinet member for community safety and environment, said: "The council is committed to improving safety for residents and tackling rogue landlords who fail in their legal responsibilities. This includes ensuring that landlords fulfil basic safety requirements such as installing working smoke alarm.

"Our staff actively work with landlords, tenants and the fire services to ensure rented properties are safe and free from fire hazards. Most responsible landlords will already have installed smoke and carbon monoxide alarms for the safety of their tenants. This new law forces the small number of rogue landlords to do the same."

She added: "The council recommends that smoke detectors are wired in by a competent electrician, which will help ensure they are always working and keeping tenants safe and that carbon monoxide alarms are fitted where gas is also used in the home."

Those renting or living in a property that accommodates three or more tenants, who do not live as one household, are encouraged to contact the service to discuss fire safety requirements.

LEGAL REQUIREMENT: carbon monoxide detectors must be fitted in rooms with solid fuel burning appliances

- Landlords wanting advice or tenants who are concerned about the standard of their privately rented accommodation can contact the council's environmental health residential service on residential@royalgreenwich.gov.uk or 020 8921 8157.

Safe travel!

IF you are planning a night out it is advisable to hail a black cab or book a minicab home in advance.
The only taxis licensed to pick up customers on the street are the capital's black cabs. It is illegal for any other cab drivers to do this – any cars cruising for business are breaking the law.
All minicab journeys must be booked with a Transport for London (TfL) licensed minicab office.
Never get in a car that you have not booked through a cab company - vehicles posing as minicabs are illegal, unregulated and uninsured for carrying passengers. You could be over-charged, robbed or assaulted.
To book a minicab download the Cabwise or another minicab booking app.
Find your local minicab operators here: tfl.gov.uk/find-a-cab or text CAB to 60835.

Safe travel tips from TfL:

- Plan your journey in advance.
- Don't get in an unbooked minicab even if the driver says his booked passenger hasn't turned up or you are with a group of friends.
- Be aware of your surroundings – listening to music or using your mobile can be distracting and dangerous. Where possible, keep to brightly lit areas with other people nearby.
- If you feel concerned about your safety on a bus, sit close to the driver.
- On the Tube or train, move to a carriage where there are other people.

Don't let them pick a pocket or two

POLICE have put on extra patrols across the borough over the festive period to keep residents and visitors safe from crime and anti-social behaviour.

Officers and plain clothes detectives will be working in busy shopping areas on the look-out for shoplifters and thieves.

Borough commander Helen Millichap said: "We want Christmas to be enjoyed by all visiting and living in Greenwich but we need your help to make thieves' lives difficult - we don't want them to get away with your belongings."

Sergeant Matt Burns from the Woolwich town centre team, said: "Please be extra vigilant in busy places and shops, keep your personal belongings close to you and make sure all your bags are zipped up."

Cllr Jackie Smith, cabinet member for community safety and environment, added: "Unfortunately, Christmas can be a merry time for pickpockets. We are pleased that the police are proactively tackling this issue by increasing the number of officers on the street throughout the festive period. We want to attract people to enjoy Christmas in our borough and we are absolutely committed to keeping those visitors safe."

SAFETY MESSAGES: Borough commander Helen Millichap and officers launch the local Eat, Drink and Be Safe campaign, inset, officers carry out a breath test

Tips on enjoying your tipple

THE most common reason for calling an ambulance among 21- to 30-year-olds in London is related to alcohol consumption. And now the emergency services have joined forces to remind residents to keep themselves safe while enjoying the festive season.

Eat, Drink and Be Safe is the message from the London Ambulance Service, the Met Police and London Fire Brigade who have offered some simple tips:

- book somewhere that serves food for your celebrations or eat before you go out
- pace and space when drinking – have a soft drink in between those cocktails and pints to slow down your alcohol intake
- try to stick to safe drinking levels – two to three units a day for women and three to four for men.
- You can keep an eye on how much you are drinking by downloading the NHS Change4Life drink tracker - www.nhs.uk/change4life

One Card helps shoppers stock up for Christmas

FIREWORKS, festive entertainment and a magnificent lantern parade were on the programme for thousands of residents and shoppers at Woolwich Winter Warmer celebrations.

The hugely popular annual event took place on December 5 as part of the council's exciting programme of winter-themed community events in the build-up to Christmas.

Taking place in and around General Gordon Square, the event saw many shops and restaurants around the town centre opening their doors with special discounts and deals to Greenwich One Card holders - the council's new leisure and libraries membership scheme, free to sign up to for residents.

The lantern parade got underway in fabulous fashion with school children from schools carrying their own handmade lanterns. Local musicians entertained shoppers and a main stage featured a school choir, hip hop, R&B and a remarkable pantomime with their stunning performance on the main stage. Festive characters dressed as Christmas presents and elves joined in the celebrations and entertained the children, building on the sack-fulls of Christmas spirit in Woolwich.

The Christmas lights were turned on by Cllr Denise Scott-McDonald, cabinet member for culture, creative industries & community wellbeing alongside local MP Matthew Pennycook, and the event ended with a flourish of fireworks which lit the skies over Woolwich.

The Winter Warmer was the third town centre community event hosted by the royal borough to kickstart the festive season and followed Eltham Lights Up and Victorian-themed festivities in Greenwich last month.

Cllr Denise Scott-McDonald, the cabinet member for culture, creative industries & community wellbeing, said: "Our community events are a great way to kick off the Christmas celebrations and attract shoppers to the royal borough's town centres.

"The council is committed to giving small businesses a boost and the discounts and deals offered by the Greenwich One Card is encouraging residents to spend their cash locally.

It is also a great way to save some money over the Christmas period which is undoubtedly an expensive time for many."

FESTIVE CRAFTS: It was 'Abbey Christmas' time in Abbey Wood when Santa took his reindeer along and set up his grotto at a festive farmers market in Wilton Road on December 6. Youngsters (pictured left) were busy decorating cupcakes and creating Christmas baubles while enjoying the fun of the fair in the Abbey Arms pub car park which gave the space for free. The pub is also providing a Christmas lunch later this month for elderly residents.

Residents can also get a free room thermometer, a benefit check by the Welfare Rights Service, home fire safety visits by the London Fire Brigade, and an energy efficiency assessment via Stay Warm Stay Safe.

Mixed dry recycling

Please try to recycle as much as you can over the Christmas holiday period. We know that families are very busy at this time of year but you will probably have a lot more recycling such as Christmas cards, wrapping paper, glass bottles and jars, plastic bottles, sweet tins and cardboard boxes.

Use your blue top bin or clear sacks to recycle paper, cardboard, plastics, cans, cartons and glass bottles and jars.

- Please rinse all containers before recycling them.
- We will collect flattened cardboard boxes for recycling. Please ensure they are neatly placed next to your bin/sacks and they do not contain polystyrene.
- Do not place food, liquids or general waste in the blue top bin or clear sacks as this will ruin other good recyclable material.
- Do not use black sacks as our crews will not be able to see that they contain good recyclable material and will think it is general waste!

IMPORTANT NOTICE FOR ROYAL BOROUGH TENANTS WHO ARE MOVING

DON'T GET A BILL AFTER YOU LEAVE

Under the conditions of your tenancy agreement, you have a responsibility to leave your property in an acceptable state of repair. We may visit you to check this. If we consider your property is in an unacceptable condition, you may be prevented from moving or be recharged for work.

To avoid getting an unwelcome bill, follow these rules:

- Repair any damage caused to the property by you, your family or visitors to your home.
- Make good any changes you have made to your property e.g. put back any doors that you have removed.
- Make sure your garden is not overgrown and you have cleared all garden waste.
- Clear all your items from the inside and the outside of the property. This includes any loft space, external cupboards or sheds.
- Return all the keys to the Royal Borough's offices no later than midday on Monday (or Tuesday if it is a Bank Holiday). You will be charged a further week's rent if you do not return your keys on time.

If you leave repairs that are your responsibility, or items that require disposal you will be charged the cost of this work.

Special Collection Service

The Royal Borough offers a Special Collection Service for tenants who are moving and want to dispose of something big and bulky, like a sofa or a fridge, and even unwanted clothes and other textiles.

Simply contact Waste Services on 020 8921 4661 and tell them where you live and what you would like taken away.

Items we will collect include:

Fridges, freezers, washing machines, beds, sofas, clothes and carpets (carpets must be cut up and tied into manageable bundles that one person can carry).

Items we DO NOT collect include:

Fitted kitchens, bathroom suites, boilers,sheds, fences and rubble.

For further information, please contact Waste Services on

Matthew's pedal power earns him silver

MATTHEW Robertson from Woolwich Cycling Club is celebrating after winning silver in his first international competition.

He competed in the youth event in November's International Para-cycling Championships in Manchester.

Matthew, who is sponsored by the council-backed Starting Blocks scheme, also set a national record in the Flying 200m for his category. He has also won the youth National Para-cycling road series, and will receive the award for this in February.

Matthew, who was riding in his Woolwich club kit at Manchester, said: "This was my first international race and I was nervous. I am just so delighted to have won the silver. Two of my times were my personal bests, but to have a new UK record for my group is the best part of all."

Pool winners

THEY could make your head swim! Youngsters at Woodhill Primary School have won a swimming award for their achievements in the water.

A year ago four in every five children in year 4 were unable to swim. Now almost three quarters of them can swim more than 25 metres after a massive push to encourage pupils to take to the water. The turn-around has won the Woolwich school the 2015 Primary School of the Year Award at the Amateur Swimming Association (ASA) Aquatic Awards.

Congratulating the school, Cllr Miranda Williams, the council's cabinet member for children's services, said: "Congratulations to Woodhill for this fantastic result. I am extremely keen to see all schools in the borough reach a higher number of pupils having learned to swim by the time they leave primary. Woodhill has set a shining example demonstrating that this can be achieved."

At the start of the last academic year in September 2014, 82 per cent of year 4 pupils were non-swimmers and only three per cent could swim 11 to 24 metres.

After a year-long intensive swimming and top-up programme at Woolwich's Waterfront Leisure Centre where lessons are held, all the children can swim and 72 per cent of them can reach at least 25 metres, more than the national average of 70 per cent.

The success is down to smaller tuition groups, an increased number of adults and teachers taking the lessons, and an awards programme developed with the ASA passport scheme.

All members of the swimming group have also completed a water safety and life-saving course, the school now has an after-school swimming club and diving has been introduced into lessons.

The Aquatics Awards were presented by British diver and Commonwealth bronze medallist Freddie Woodward on November 14.

Judo's jewel

Starting Blocks stars make headlines

STARTING Blocks athletes are making headlines in and out of the competition arena.

Charlton-born Gemma Gibbons ended her year with a bronze medal at the Tokyo Grand Slam earlier this month becoming the first British woman to medal at the event.

The 78kg fighter had a hard battle to the podium facing opponents from Korea, Japan, the US and Brazil before facing another Japanese judoka Ruika Sato, who had won Grand Slam medals in Paris and Tyumen earlier this year.

With just 48 seconds left on the clock and despite conceding a couple of shidos, Gemma did more than enough to hold off the Japanese judoka for bronze.

Gemma who is supported by Greenwich Starting Blocks, the royal borough charity set up to support aspiring athletes with the costs of training and competing, was delighted with the result and said:

"I have always dreamt of getting a Tokyo Grand Slam medal. It's great to have medalled at all three tournaments on the Asia tour, a nice end to the year."

Meanwhile, weightlifter Zoe Smith has been named as the Sky Sports Sportswoman of the Month for November.

The Commonwealth 58kg champion who broke two British records at last month's Weightlifting World Championships in Houston, Texas, claimed 32 per cent of the public vote beating Scotland striker Jane Ross and swimmer Jazz Carlin.

The 21-year-old Starting Blocks star said: "I'm really overwhelmed and it's great to have the support of the British public behind me after my performance in Houston a couple of weeks ago. Breaking the records were the icing on the cake for me. I'm really pleased to have got my name back in the record books."
